Need to buy or find extra supplies to build the projects.By ARCThis will be a birthday present for our eight year old grandson, so he hasn't seen it yet. I'm just writing a review to let anyone buying this as a gift know that the kit suggests quite a few extra supplies that you need to construct the box buildings. I went out today and bought an exacto knife, glue, tape of various sorts, including double-sided, sharp scissors, construction paper, a ruler, and several other things listed at the beginning of the book. While most households will have some of the supplies, it would be disappointing for a child to lack something needed to begin enjoying this right away! Also, you need a supply of paper boxes, and I let my daughter know she should start saving them up for when he gets the present.0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Super cute and cleverBy Jenny T-SThis is actually a SET consisting of a smallish booklet with photos and a pad of sticker sheets and decorative papers with which to decorate the boxes. There are multiples of each of each sticker and paper sheet. Super cute and clever!1 of 1 people found the following review helpful. My son and I both love this bookBy Kathy AdamsI love to do crafts as much as my kids, so when I read about this book I had to have it. I thought there would be more stickers, and you need a few materials I was not expecting, like colored masking tape, but the concept and materials are so great I still love it. And my son loves to learn about other countries, so it is perfect.

This playtime craft kit upcycles everyday boxes into adorable dwellings from around the world and provides hours of fun for the whole family. A cereal box becomes a jaunty British double-decker bus, while a milk carton makes a perfect pagoda, and more. Includes building design pattern sheets, decorative stickers, and easy-to-follow instructions for 15 projects.
