I bought these for a grand-niece(4) and nephew(3) as I loved these lacing kinds of things when I was young and believe they do help develop motor coordination and fine motor skills. These are also very cute, with the laces completing the picture. There are several pictures and various colors of laces to use. I have not seen them use them yet as they were a recent gift, but may report back more when they do. They had very high ratings which is why I bought this set. I think we need more activities like this for young children where they have to do the work, and use their own creativity and skills to complete something. So many toys are very attractive, but they sing, make music, move and so forth on their own leaving children to press buttons and then as as observers . The latter toys are not bad, I think all young children like them, and even can learn from them, I just think it is good to balance them with more interactive toys that are age appropriate. We all need to learn to lace and tie! I learned on a large wooden shoe which was the old woman and the shoe full of children and remember loving to lace that up, eventually to tie a bow!1 of 1 people found the following review helpful. but she likes these much better than the Melissa and Doug animal trace onesBy JenMy daughter is turning 3 years next month and she doesn't quite get yet what these lace cards are used for, but she likes these much better than the Melissa and Doug animal trace ones. She'll just randomly play with the strings and cards. I like these better as well. Something about the colors. Hopefully in a few months she'll also 'get' how to trace the cards. :)0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. So cute!By HilaryP22These are adorable. I love that there are 10 in the package, so it was plenty for my two kiddos to share. It's easy to use , as my two year old can do it with a little prompting, yet it's still fun for my 6 year old to do as well.

These ten fun and educational lacing cards feature Eric Carle's charming book cover illustrations. Durable and reusable, these lacing cards encourage hand-eye coordination and help develop sequencing, dexterity, and motor skills. Printed on thick, sturdy board, they are perfect for small hands to hold and are equally suited for hanging on the wall in a child's room. WARNING: CHOKING HAZARD Small parts. Not for children under 3 years.
